With an international number you don't need to set up new offices

Using a virtual international number will allow you to sell your service or products in new countries without the cost and effort of setting up new offices there. You can have an international number set up in minutes, so you can push on with advertising and selling your products.

Build customer confidence in buying from you by appearing local

Some customers are very conscious about buying from companies outside their country. Using an international number you can bring your business closer to them, removing that barrier by appearing more locally based. You can still receive all your calls in your office or on your mobile in the UK.

Bring your company closer to your international customers

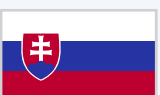

You may already have customers around the world. Make the most of these connections and look to expand them with telephone numbers in those countries. If you've got offices around the world, you can forward calls to the appropriate destination. If you've not got offices around the world, you can at least make it look like you do
